THE WEEK.

THE PRACTICE OF PUFFING

Courier Journal Special.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 23.—There is a sensation in the office of the clerk of the court of appeals. Blithly "Tom" Henry has furnished it. He has been drunk, very recklessly drunk, for two days past.
He was drunk last week, and the week before, and for the last six weeks. He has neglected his business, deserted the state house, and hid himself in the wilds of Morgan county, where liquor spring abundantly in the soft moonshine. Three weeks ago he was in Louisville to practice his good trade, a firm of correspondents had. As one of my informants put it, "He just raised hell." Finally, after closing a couple of Jefferson county distilleries, he came to Frankfort and laid out the price, every drunkard that entered the state. Sheboygan water was poured down the gullets of the Kentuckians, and bitter beer not. Apollinaris soda cocktails and Turkish baths were tried and retired.
His desire seemed to be to knock the record out, and he did so. After getting out enough of liquor to run the next legislature his friends shipped him to the state house, and he was sent to the state house, and his acquaintances were "worn" of that session are writing by sunshine and moonlight to furnish his fuel.

But seriously, Tom Henry has vacated his office by an arrangement all the details of which I can not now give. The court of appeals, and the people he will be with his continuous debauches. His work has been entirely in the hands of his side deputies, Capt. A. Sam M. Gaine and Thomas G. Poore. As I understand it, a contract has been made by Tom Henry—with whom I do not know—accepting $100 a month as his compensation. There is a principal and a partner to the firm, and all permitive and privileges, to remain away from the office and be elected only in name. Meers, Gaines and Poore are to conduct the entire work, the state to divide the work between them.

Boys.

The good people of Frankfort, for themselves, are a great destination, for which decent people have to rejoice, and the poor devils and bairns that have fawned and followed you, will now deserter you in platoons. Miserable wretch that art! You have seen the wind and reaped the whirlwind, and you have to thank your stars that you have escaped unscathed.

gives an injunction to remove him. In this case political committees are nothing, and he need neither waste their whiplashing assistance nor deprecate their opposition.

FROM THE NATIONAL CITY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—This letter is in type you will probably have more light of the laws of representatives, and I will therefore keep near the shore and avoid predications. It is impossible to tell who is shamed at this writing. Several new elements have made their appearance in the court during the past week, and there is yet to be seen what the opposition will do. and the result may be very much complicated in unexpected ways before the first Monday in December.

The democrats are thoroughly imbued with a feeling of the importance of prudence and caution. They desire to avoid the appearance of certain property, resulted in one person being killed and five others being fatally drunk, and proved himself a gay bird generally.

A battle between workmen at Murray ville, Pa., over the possession of certain drunks, has made himself famous in Georgia.
Although a successful revisor, it seems he married a woman and interested both in a matrimonial contest, and he was confessed he was in beat by dangers, but the other, on the hand, are strong in able and tried leaders. A parliamentary majority can count such men as Holmes, Hurd, Barber, Tucker, Hewitt, and others, and the Republicans are no less numerous than the former.
The widow Malone can now be had for the asking.—[Detroit Free Press.]

It doesn't cost a cent to bring out a man for a presidential candidate and nobody can imagine how it tickles him for a few weeks.—[Detroit Free Press.]

The graves of the plowmen who came over in the Mayflower have been discovered at Plymouth, Mass.

Why are not a constitutional amendment at polygamy?—[Houston Post.]

The Mahones should go west and grow up as cowboys.—[Marion Telegraph.]

The Widow Malone can now be had for the asking.—[Fort Worth Gazette.]

A majority that can count such leaders as Blaine, Cox, Springer, and many others as members of the opposition, will be able to make itself heard, and it is believed that the Ohio legislature shall return to Senator Thurman to the senate. The Democrats that body feel the loss of his leadership his immense legal learning, and acquaintance with affairs. The minority in the senate is not lacking in ability but it has not had before a leader of the same ability as Blaine, and it is believed that the Ohio legislature will acknowledge the power to counsel, decide, combine and control as Alien G.
Thurman. The republicans have no longer such leaders as Blaine, Cox, and Springer, and it is believed that the Ohio legislature will acknowledge
the power to counsel, decide, combine and control as Alien G.
Thurman.

The state winter will contain thirty members who have served also in the house of representatives, which is a large proportion when it is considered that there are only seventy-eight senators in all.
